BP in Belgium

100 years after we first arrived in Belgium, we're looking forward to a very exciting future

Safety is predominant subject within the chemical industry and BP in Geel

What we do

Belgium has been part of the BP story since 1909. Today BP in Belgium focuses mainly on producing chemicals, but we're also involved in lubricants blending and marketing, as well supplying products for the marine markets. The fuels aviation market in Belgium is supplied by our BP office in the Netherlands.

The City of Geel is home to our chemicals plant. It generates a total annual production of more than 2 million tonnes. The products we create here are purified terephthalic acid (PTA), the raw material for mainly polyethylene terephthalate (PET) bottles in Europe, and paraxylene, the raw material for PTA.

We also produce BP lubricants at our two other sites: Ghent, where we produce and ship 150,000 tonnes of automotive lubricants, and Antwerp, where our blending plant produces 110,000 tonnes of lubricants a year. This figure is made 80 % from marine lubricants and 20 % from car lubricants.

Antwerp is also where you'll find our marketing and sales office. Here products for marine, transport, agriculture, inland waterways and workshops are introduced to the marketplace. BP and Castrol are the main brands.

Our people and partners

Of our 700 employees in Belgium, 95 % are local people.

In Geel we employ 370 people, in Ghent 200 and in Antwerp 130, including home based employees.

Community investment

In Belgium, as in the rest of the world, we aim to ensure that our work respects the many people, organizations and environments our business touches.

Through social investment projects we can play a part in the community. We invest in local schools and other educational institutions, like those in the local communities around our Geel plant for example.

Please use the contact details below to email, call or write to us at BP Belgium. We aim to deal with your enquiries as quickly as possible.

Employment enquiries

Please visit the Belgium/Netherlands recruitment centre where you can search for current vacancies and register your interest in working for BP. Once you register we will be able to automatically alert you as soon as suitable opportunities become available.
